The Elements of Your Personality

Your personality type code is made up of four letters that represent key aspects of how you think, relate to others, and approach the world around you. Let's look now at how each of those four letters can help you to understand who you are and how you navigate your environment.

In the next section, you'll learn about the significance of each of the four letters in your personality type. You'll discover the four dimensions of personality, and see how you scored on each dimension.

Introversion vs. Extraversion

This dimension describes how you manage your energy. Your preference for Introversion or Extraversion relates to how readily you express yourself, how easily you warm up to new people, and the extent to which you engage with the world around you. But most fundamentally, this dimension relates to whether you are energized by time alone, or time with other people.

Introverts are energized by being quiet, reflective, and calm. They maintain a distance from the outside world and prefer to conserve their energy.

Introverts enjoy:

- · Contemplating ideas and experiences
- · Being in calm surroundings
- · Exploring a subject in depth
- · Reflecting on thoughts or feelings
- · Maintaining distance and privacy
- · Quiet and solitude

Extraverts are energized by engaging with other people. They approach the world enthusiastically and want to experience the excitement of life.

Extraverts enjoy:

- · Interacting with people
- · Being in busy surroundings
- · Engaging with the outside world
- · Expressing thoughts and feelings
- · Being noticed by others
- · Stimulation and activity

Your energy style is blended, with a slight preference for Extraversion.

Your responses were 49% consistent with a preference for Introversion, and 51% consistent with a preference for Extraversion.

INTROVERTED 49%

EXTRAVERTED 51%

Your energy style is a blend of Introversion and Extraversion, and as such, you are neither a true Introvert nor a true Extravert. For the purposes of personality typing, you may call yourself an Extravert, as you do tend slightly to prefer this mode. However, itâMs more accurate to say that you are a bit of both Extravert and Introvert: you tend to use both styles somewhat equally, or you may prefer one style over the other depending on the situation.

The 6 Facets of Your Energy Style

Now that you understand your preference for Extraversion, it's time to explore the details of who you really are.

How exactly do you relate to yourself, to others, and to the world around you? What makes you different and unique among other Extraverts? Your scores on the 6 facets of Extraversion/Introversion can help you to understand how, where, and why you connect with yourself and the world the way you do.Â

Because you do not have a strong preference for Extraversion, your scores here will be especially helpful in understanding the unique dynamics of your energy style. You'll be able to see which of your traits are more Extraverted in nature, and which are more typically Introverted.

PLACID 32%

ENERGETIC 68%

As an Energetic person, you have a high energy level and like to keep busy. You tend to leap out of bed in the morning and buzz from one activity to another. You have a lot of things you want to get done and often find that other people can't keep up.

This trait is usually associated with Extraversion and, to a lesser extent, with Judging.

The Other Half: Placid people are not inclined to be busy just for the sake of being busy, and prefer to take a mellow approach to life. They may find they have less energy than other people, and like to conserve it for what matters most to them.

RESERVED 50%

EXPRESSIVE 50%

You're very close to the borderline on this facet. Rather than preferring one style strongly, you most likely use both styles. Many people find they are more Reserved in unfamiliar situations, while they become more Expressive with people they trust.

When you are in a more Reserved mode, you tend to keep your thoughts, feelings, and observations to yourself. Other people may have difficulty reading you, and even people close to you may not know how you really feel about things.

This trait is usually associated with Introversion and, to a lesser extent, with Feeling.

When you are feeling more Expressive, you readily share your thoughts, feelings, and ideas. You freely communicate exactly what's going on in your head without editing yourself or worrying about whether you'll be understood.

This trait is usually associated with Extraversion and, to a lesser extent, with Thinking.

PRIVATE 64%

PROMINENT 36%

When you are feeling Private, youâMre selective about how you socialize, preferring small groups (or no group at all). You tend to shy away from large parties, and big social events may leave you feeling drained. You like to pick and choose when and how you interact with

This trait is usually associated with Introversion.

In a Prominent mode, you love being around people, in the center of the action. You like to feel that youâMre an important part of the group and that your friends, family, and acquaintance seek your company. You make an effort to entertain others and enjoy their

SOLITARY 78%

ENGAGED 22%

As a Solitary person, youâMre highly sensitive to sights, sounds, and other stimuli from the world around you, and often find busy environments overwhelming. Most of the time, you prefer quiet and solitude. Where others may seek to be in the middle of the action, youâMd rather find a tranquil corner where you can reflect.

This trait is usually associated with Introversion.

The Other Half: Engaged people enjoy being in the middle of the action, and are drawn to busy, noisy, and otherwise stimulating environments. They like boisterous places such as crowded events, loud concerts, and big parties.

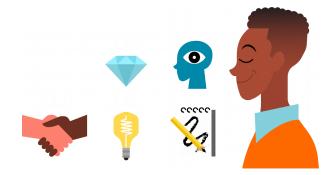

Sensing vs. Intuition

This dimension describes how you process information. Your preference for Sensing or Intuition indicates whether your style of thinking is straightforward, factual, and concrete, or creative, interpretive, and abstract. Sensors and Intuitives tend to be interested in different kinds of information, with Sensors more interested in facts and details, and Intuitives more interested in ideas.

Sensors process information in a concrete, realistic way. They focus on observing and recalling facts and details.

Sensors focus on:

Intuitives process information in an abstract, imaginative way. They focus on ideas and concepts that cannot be directly observed.

Intuitives focus on:

- Observing sights, sounds, sensations
- · Noticing details
- · Experiencing the present moment
- Concrete, provable facts
- Realism and practicality
- Knowledge from past experience

- Observing patterns and connections
- Interpreting meaning
- Imagining potential
- Ideas and concepts
- Innovation and creativity
- Possibilities for the future

Your dominant cognitive style is Intuition.

Your responses were 27% consistent with a preference for Sensing, and 73% consistent with a preference for Intuition.

SENSING 27% INTUITION 73%

As an Intuitive, you are primarily interested in ideas and possibilities. You tend to be bored by mundane details, preferring instead to look at the big picture and understand how everything fits together. You are drawn to interesting ideas and theories, and enjoy imagining the future. You naturally see patterns and connections and often have a " sixth sense" about things.

The 6 Facets of Your Cognitive Style

Now that you understand your preference for Intuition, let's look at your cognitive style in more detail. How do you process the information you take in? What makes your thought process unique? Your scores on the 6 facets of Sensing/Intuition can help you to understand exactly how your mind works and how you make sense of ideas, facts, and details.

You'll also find out which of your personality traits are typically Intuitive, and discover any surprising traits you may have in common with Sensors.

REALISTIC 27% IMAGINATION 73%

As an Imaginative person, you have an abstract way of thinking and tend to focus on ideas, concepts, and theories rather than concrete things. Your imagination is a fertile place, and you have no trouble envisioning things you've never seen in real life.

This trait is usually associated with Intuition.

The Other Half: Realistic people have a concrete way of thinking and tend to focus on things you can see and touch rather than abstract ideas, concepts, and theories. They don't tend to spend much time in the world of the imagination, preferring to focus on real life.

CONCRETE 0% CONCEPTUAL 100%

As a Conceptual person, youâMre interested in discovering the larger principles behind what you see, and enjoy learning about scientific, mathematical, and philosophical theories that can give you more insight into the events you observe in your daily life.

This trait is usually associated with Intuition.

The Other Half: Concrete people learn by doing. To really understand something, they want to experience it with their own hands. They tend not to believe in things they canâMt see for themselves.

TRADITIONAL 61% PROGRESSIVE 39%

You're very close to the borderline on this facet. Rather than preferring one style strongly, you most likely blend both styles and may take a different approach depending on your mood or circumstances.

Describing Your Personality

How would other people describe you? Below are some common adjectives we use to talk about people's personalities in everyday life. For each adjective, your score shows how likely it is that other people might use this word to describe your personality.

Your Scores and the Four Temperaments

Now that we've looked at the individual elements of your personality, let's see how it all fits together.

To begin, we'll look at how your personality profile fits within the four temperament types. The temperaments were created by psychologist David Keirsey, who used them to describe essential themes in the way people think and behave. Temperament is a broader way of categorizing people than personality type, and is thus helpful as a quick way of understanding what drives people. Each temperament type describes a particular way of approaching the world.

The Idealists

Idealist personality types are creative, imaginative, compassionate, and focused on the possibilities for people and society. They want to heal other people, connect on a deep level, and use their unique style of expression to change the world.

The Guardians

Guardian personality types are sensible, organized, stable, and focused on upholding traditions and institutions. They want to ensure that things are done correctly, that rules are followed, and that people take their proper place in society.

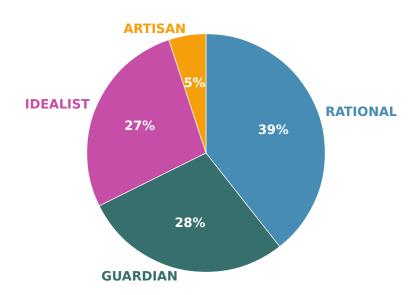

The Rationals

Rational personality types are analytical, critical, questioning, and focused on innovative ideas. They want to use their powers of logic and reason to overhaul systems, improve efficiency, and manifest their vision of what could be.

The Artisans

Artisan personality types are adaptable, down-to-earth, practical, and focused on living in the moment. They want to develop useful skills, master the physical world, and enjoy all the sensory pleasures that life has to offer.

Your scores here demonstrate how well your personality profile fits within each of the 4 temperament types. Your highest scoring area is usually the temperament type that fits you best. If you have roughly equal scores for more than one temperament type, then you probably shift from one style to another depending on the situation.

Your Scores and the 16 Personality Types

Now let's look at how your scores match up with individual personality types.

You're probably most interested in finding the personality type that fits you best, and of course, this is important information! But when we assign types to people, we often overlook the fact that no personality type description will be a perfect fit for a given individual. Many people find a bit of themselves in more than one type description.

A more complete way to understand your own individual personality profile is to look at how well you match with all 16 personality types. Looking at your scores for each type allows you to get a deeper understanding of who you are. Although you will still probably want to choose one type to identify with, you may find that you can gain more insight into yourself by reading about other types that also match your personality.

The following chart shows how well your personality profile matches with each of the 16 personality types. The percentage scores are a representation of how well your responses fit with the typical profile for each type. For practical purposes, the percentage figures can be thought of as representing the degree to which a given type profile will accurately describe you as an individual.

You can also use this chart to estimate how much you will have in common with people of different types. The higher your score for a type, the more likely that a person of that type will seem to have a similar personality to your own. Conversely, a low match score for a particular type indicates that people of that type will seem to be very different from you.

Discovering Your Type

Now we'll go in depth into the personality type that fits you best.

Your personality type code is an invaluable key to understanding how you function in life, work, and love. Knowing your personality type can help you to understand the answers to questions like:

- ✓ Why have I always been drawn to a particular career, even though I have no experience in that field?
- ✓ Why do I keep having the same issue in all of my relationships?
- ✓ Why do other people consistently use the same words to describe me and my personality?

The next section is based on extensive research, both practical and theoretical, into the profiles of the sixteen personality types. You'll discover how people of your type typically approach work and relationships. You'll also see how you can use your strengths and minimize your weaknesses to reach your personal potential.

Understanding how different aspects of your life connect with your personality type can give you meaningful validation for the path your life has taken so far. You may also find that this information can provide guidance to help you plan your direction for the future.

The information in the following section is based on the personality type that seemed to be the best fit for you, based on your test responses. You may find that some of the information in this section does not seem 100% accurate for you. This is normal; no personality type description will fit you completely. If you feel, however, that the type described below is not correct for you, and would like to get the information in the following section for a different type, please simply contact us and let us know.

Your ENTJ Personality Type

You are analytical and objective, and like bringing order to the world around you. When there are flaws in a system, you see them and enjoy the process of discovering and implementing a better way. You are assertive and enjoy taking charge; you see your role as that of leader and manager, organizing people and processes to achieve goals.

Your Core Values:

- Ambition
- · Influence
- Persistence
- Logic

Your Key Motivators:

- Taking charge
- · Making tough decisions
- · Critiquing systems and processes
- · Achieving success and status

You excel at logical reasoning and are probably articulate and quick-witted. You are characteristically ambitious and interested in gaining power and influence. You are likely highly motivated by success in your career and enjoy hard work. To you, decision-making is a vocation. You want to be in a position to make the call and put plans into motion.

You tend to be blunt and decisive. Driven to get things done, you can sometimes be critical or brusque in the pursuit of a goal. You are typically friendly and outgoing, although you may not pick up on emotional subleties in other people. You often love working with others toward a common goal, but may not find time to attend to their feelings. You are focused on results and want to be productive, competent, and influential.

How Others See You

You are a natural leader, and often take charge no matter where you are. You have a clear vision for the future, and intuitively understand how to move people and processes towards that goal. You tend to approach every situation with the attitude of an efficiency analyst, and are not shy about pointing out what could be done better. For you, your ideas are a foregone conclusion: it's just a matter of time before you can move the players to get everything accomplished.

You are often gregarious, and seem to have an idea for how a person will fit into your grand scheme from the moment they are introduced. You are typically direct and may seem presumptuous or even arrogant; you size people and situations up very quickly, and have trouble being anything but honest about what you see. You are sensitive to issues of power, and seek positions and people of influence. You are ambitious, and often very engaged in your career. More than any other type, you enjoy your work, and may even say that working is what you do for fun.

Your Communication Style

You are a direct and commanding communicator, often with a clear idea of what needs to be done and and a take-charge attitude toward organizing people and projects. You communicate your vision in a logical, task-oriented way. You enjoy analyzing ideas, but are ultimately driven by results; you want to integrate information, create a plan, and then take action.

Opportunities for Excellence

- Choose roles that allow you to be conceptual and innovative, and also allow you to put your plans into action. You will be most satisfied when you can implement your vision for an organization.
- Use your ability to envision future possibilities to devise more effective strategies. Make sure you understand all of the angles before you move forward.
- Help others to stay efficient and effective with your organizational skills. Others will look to you to help them adhere to standards and schedules.
- Share your analysis and decision-making process with others. You will encourage collaboration when others understand and support your logic.

Potential Pitfalls

- Avoid environments without a measure of structure and stability.
 You like to stick to a schedule, and will be frustrated in a culture where deadlines are not taken seriously.
- Take care to respect different work styles. There may be time when you'll get the best results by taking a step back and giving up some control.
- Don't be dismissive of people who seem overly emotional. You have a preference for logic, but there are times when using some sensitivity will help you to make the best decision.
- Don't be afraid to slow down once in a while. You want to take action, but there are times when you will be more effective by taking some time to reflect on your next move.
